

The wizard
camp
by Anna

A young girl with long brown hair is sitting in a tufted armchair, reading a large, open book. The book is glowing with a vibrant rainbow of light, transitioning from yellow and orange on the left to green and blue on the right. Magical light effects, including glowing leaves and small tent-like shapes, emanate from the book and float around the room. The room is cozy, with a bookshelf filled with books in the background, a bed with pillows to the right, and a window with curtains. The overall atmosphere is warm and nostalgic.

When I was younger,

I was often in youth camps,
but the wizard camp
is the best I remember.

We could do so many things there.

A whimsical illustration of a breakfast restaurant. The scene is set in a rustic, wooden structure with intricate carvings and arches. In the center, a large, ornate clock with a blue crystal ball on top shows the time as 8:00. The room is filled with wooden tables and benches, some with breakfast items like bread, honey, and fruit. Several plates of food, including fried eggs, bread, and fruit, are floating in the air, surrounded by glowing golden and green light trails. The background shows a bright, sunny day with green trees and a blue sky with soft clouds. The overall atmosphere is warm and inviting.

In the morning we got up at 8 a.m.
The breakfast was very good.

We even had a view of the ocean
while having breakfast.

After that we had magician training; it was tough at the beginning with the wand, but in the end I had it well under control.

After lunch we had two hours of freetime. Then we spent time with kids in small groups, for example to build a tree house with our wands.

We had to sleep in tents.
Bedtime was at 10 p.m.
But before that we often went stargazing.

It was great.
My roommates were Julia,
Sophia, Nele and Aurelia.

It was so funny in our tent.

The best day was when we built a tree house.

Everything was fine
but Julia had misspoken

the spell and turned Sophia and me into frogs;

Nele and Aurelia burst out laughing.

Luckily, she was so clever and turned us back into people.

It was the best camp ever.
